

Agnes Kocsis

Short BIO

Agnes Kocsis is a Consultant Clinical Psychologist and Head of Clinical Health Psychology at St Mary's Hospital, part of Imperial College Healthcare Academic Health Sciences Centre. In her sexual function work she takes a particular interest in the brain, as an important sexual organ. This leads her to emphasise basic processes of learning, such as classical and instrumental conditioning and the role of mindfulness meditation in training the brain and the rest of the body to improve sexual experience.